

PROF. SANGEETA MITTAL

Professor, Department of English, Maharaja Agrasen College

Sangeeta Mittal is Professor in the Department of English, Maharaja Agrasen College. She has over 25 years of experience of teaching English literature, with Romanticism, Jacobean Age, and Shakespeare as her favourite areas, apart from contributing to the corporate life of the College by holding all major portfolios.

Her dissertation on "Delhi Culture: A Literary Perspective" undertakes for the first time an in-depth interdisciplinary analysis of "Delhi Culture" using Cultural, Urban and Memory studies to encapsulate the historical, topical, material and urban aspects of this complex and layered phenomenon. Literature from Indraprastha, Islamic Delhi, British Delhi, post-colonial, modern and postmodern Delhi has been pressed into the service of this project. The study, thus, presents a model for scholars, residents and visitors to Delhi to go beyond romantic and commercial jingoism and forge more meaningful civic and intellectual connect with the city. She has been extending her research on Delhi through several research papers published in National and International journals. She is now preparing to publish a book on "The Delhi Novel". Having been member of organizing committee, chair, paper presenter and invited speaker at Interdisciplinary National Conferences on Biodiversity and Climate Change and City Lives: Spaces and Narratives, she plans to further continue her work on city and environment. With passionate interest in institution building, she has two courses in educational leadership to her credit. Teaching value-based skill enhancement papers like Creative Writing, Academic Writing, and Travel Writing, she wishes to strengthen this interest and expertise through resource building on-line and faculty development programmes.
