

DR. MANJARI CHATURVEDI

English Literature and Language Teacher At The University of Delhi

Manjari Chaturvedi is an English literature and language teacher at the University of Delhi and a PhD candidate at Jawaharlal Nehru University, Delhi, India. She was a Fulbright language Teaching Assistant in 2016-17 at FIU in the Department of Modern languages where she taught Hindi Language. Her interest in urban spaces emanates from growing up in a quintessentially peripheral neighbourhood witness to debacles in history like the 1857 rebellion and the 1984 riots in Delhi. She tries to make sense of it all through the lens and the pen while currently also working on a novel on Delhi.

Her interest areas include Cultural Studies, Post-colonial Studies, Language Teaching, and Film Studies.
